RACE & POLICING IN AMERICA

TUESDAY, MARCH 24 2015

EDUCATION BUILDING, RM 212

7:00 PM

PRESENTED BY:

CHARLES BLOW

CHARLES M. BLOW is the Visual Op-Ed columnist for The New York Times, where his weekly column appears every Saturday. Mr. Blow's columns tackle hot-button issues such as teen pregnancy, the national debt, the presidential race, gender roles, and the gay rights movement. In his memoir, Fire Shut Up in My Bones, Mr. Blow mines the rich poetry of the out-of-time Louisiana town where he grew up — a place where slavery's legacy felt close, reverberating in the elders' stories and in the near constant wash of violence. It is a bravely personal, one-of-a-kind story of self-invention — an instant classic of African American storytelling from the South.
